ONE NEGRO ESCAPES

Officers Are Searching for Black Who Made Escape Successful.

TEXARKANA, Ark., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Two negroes were dead, another wounded and a fourth in been searched for today in connection with breaking a seal on a box car door in the Kansas City Southern railway yards last night.

Clarence Hart and Ode Eason were shot by special officer W. N. Weaver of the Kansas City Southern railroad company when the two negroes attempted to escape after he had made the arrest. Hart started to pull a pistol but before he was able Weaver fired a load of buckshot into his body. Eason then tried to make his escape and was shot down by the officers.

Ira Stewart, a third negro in the party was slightly wounded in the arm as he made a dash for liberty.

Officer Weaver observed the breaking of the seal from the box car door in the railroad yards, and made the arrest and was taking them to police when the negroes tried to make their escape. The fourth negro is still at liberty.

Matthews Appreciates Watermelon Calendar

Mr. Talbot Felid,
Hope, Arkansas.
Dear Mr. Felid:

I certainly appreciate your thinking of me and sending me one of your watermelon calendars. The watermelons I sent out from Hope to various firms throughout the country I felt did Arkansas some good. Any time we can show that we excel in any line gets favorable comment. A lot of these institutions were banking and investment houses and they displayed the watermelon in the window with a card on it showing it was grown in Arkansas, etc.

With kindest personal regards, I beg to remain

Yours very truly,
Justin Matthews.

France Seeks Right To Kill Seed-Eating Larks

PARIS, Jan. 6.—The lark, the symbol of poets and favorite dish of ecquiers, has lost prestige in France where a movement has just been started for its extermination.

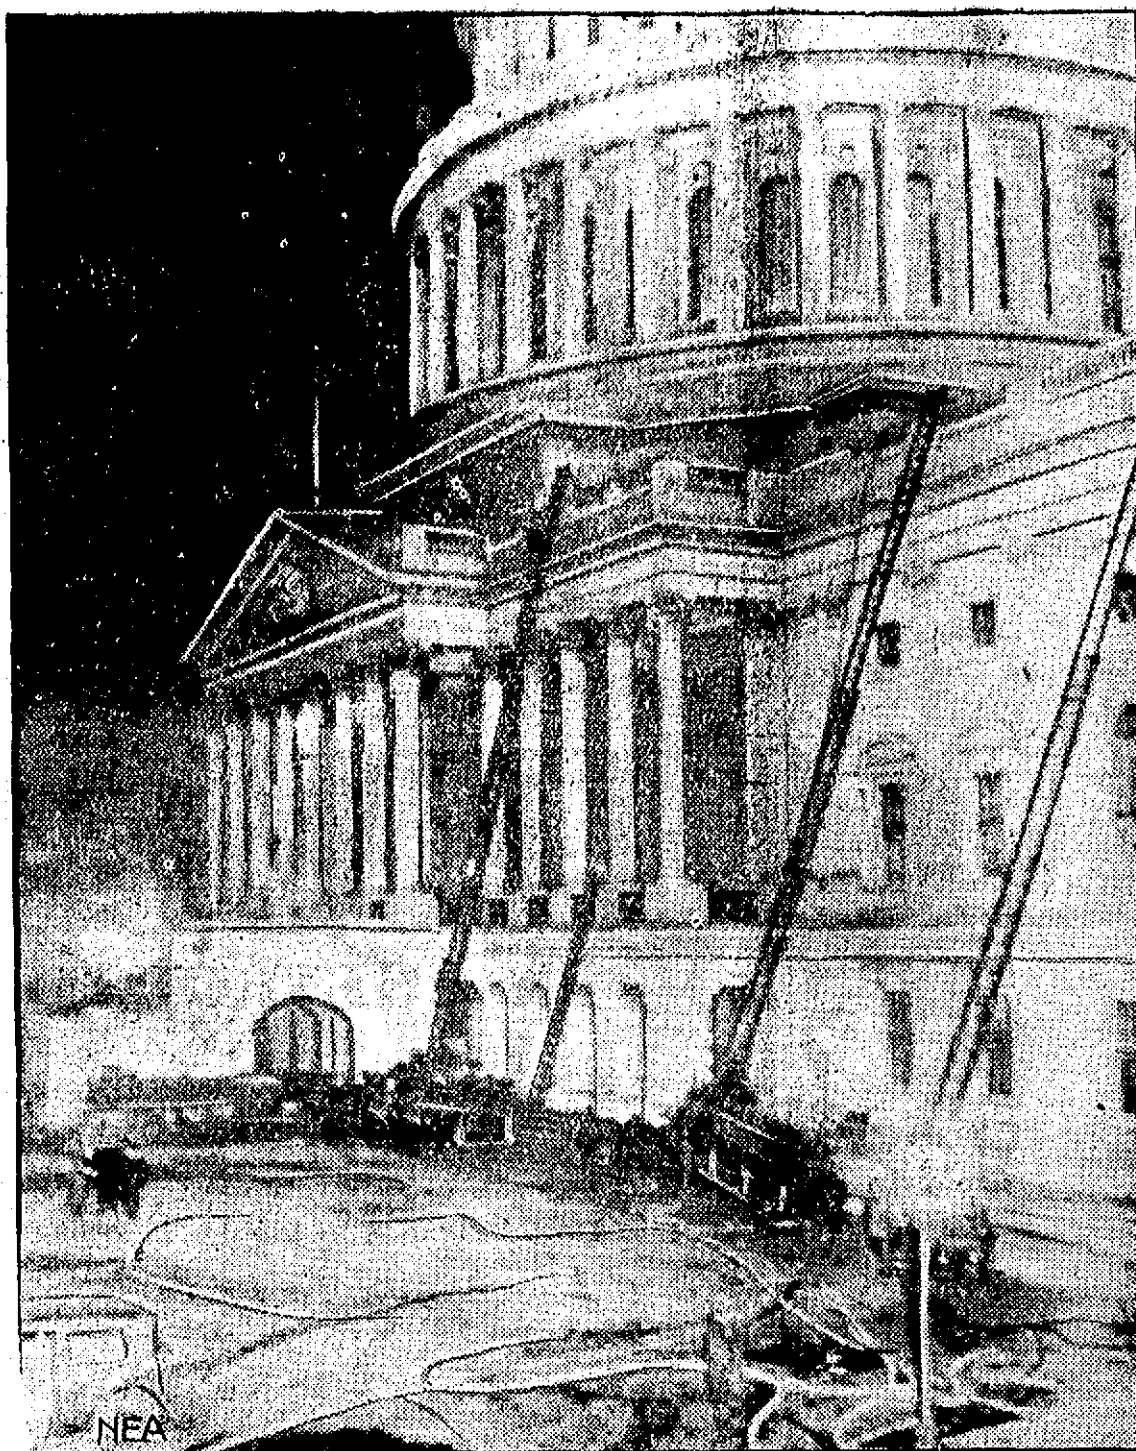

As a result of losses to agriculture caused by larks sweeping down from the skies and making a meal on newly-sown wheat seeds, deputies representing the farming districts of the country have asked for a revision of the hunting laws to bring about a more general slaughter of these birds.

Arkansas Has Had Good Crop Year

Total Value for State During 1929 Reported As $256,614,000.

Arkansas during 1929 experienced the best year agriculturally since 1925, the total value of all crops being $256,614,000, an increase of $7,696,000 over the previous year, the annual report of Charles S. Bouten, federal state crop statistician revealed.

An increase of $8,952,000 in the value of cotton and cottonseed in 1929 over 1928 more than accounted for the increase of the total crop value increase last year over the preceding year.

The drought during the growing season, naturally aided the cotton crop caused the corn growers to experience their worst year since 1901, Mr. Bouten's report said. Value of the corn crop in 1929 was $25,821,000, or almost $6,000,000 less than in 1928.

Because of the ability of the cotton plant to yield well despite dry weather, the 1929 yield per acre of lint was 186 pounds, or nine pounds above the average of the previous five years, the report said. The total cotton production was approximately 1,500,000 bales having a value of $117,665,000.

Several factors were responsible for the poor corn production, Mr. Bouten said. The unfavorable weather at planting time first delayed and then prevented much planting, so that the average was cut about 19 per cent below expectations. Then the dry weather of July and August caused nearly a total failure in thin or poorly prepared soils, he said.

While the state as a whole prospered agriculturally during 1929, the benefits were not equally distributed, the report showed. Western and northwestern Arkansas had setbacks, while north Arkansas and southwest Arkansas had "spotted" conditions. The southeast and northeast, or Delta section, prospered, Mr. Bouten said, and the outlook is better in these sections than at any time since 1925.

Mystery Murder of Woman Is Believed Solved

Relatives of Little Rock Identify Body At Marked Tree.

SUSPECT IS HELD

Willie Walker of Wynne, Is Arrested With Wo- man's Automobile.

MARKED TREE, Jan. 6.—Identification of the body of Miss Lena Waugh, aged 35, of Little Rock, by relatives and other persons who knew her in Little Rock and the arrest in Dallas, Tex., of Willie Walker of Wynne, are the latest developments in the mystery surrounding the finding of the woman's body near here three weeks ago.

Besides the parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Waugh, and their son, James N. Waugh of Independence county, O. A. Cook, automobile dealer, and his salesmen, Harold Holder, and a negro bell boy at the Lincoln hotel in Little Rock, positively identified the body.

Sheriff A. H. Landers of Poinsett county is en route to Dallas to return Walker here in connection with the death of the woman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Waugh and their son came here after having learned of almost certain clues concerning the identity of the body in Little Rock Saturday.

The parents and the son stood before the corpse here and were grief-stricken. Later they recounted to officers that Miss Waugh had appeared in the same dress only two months ago when she visited her parents near Batesville. They were positive in their identification.

The Little Rock party came here at the request of Mr. and Mrs. Waugh to determine whether or not the body was that of the woman who had bought an automobile from the Cook Automobile Company of Little Rock almost two months ago. They were certain that the body was that of the same woman who had given her name at "Mrs. L. D. Walsh," when she bought the Studebaker.

Hempstead County Men Make Money In Radishes

H. C. and M. F. Curtis, of the McCaskill community have just closed a very successful year in truck farming, according to the Arkansas Farm and Market Bulletin. This monthly publication is issued once a month by the state bureau of Mines, Manufactures and Agriculture. It's January issue carries this story:

"We are glad to record successful and profitable operations on the farm when such circumstances come to our attention. In this connection it is a pleasure to mention the success of H. C. and M. F. Curtis who are engaged in truck farming near McCaskill, in Hempstead county, the past season. On the 9th of December the report says that these two thrifty and industrious farmers had just finished gathering their third crop of truck from a plot of ground of a little less than one acre. They made a clear profit of $551.00 from their spring crop of radishes, followed by a crop of cucumbers, and then a fall crop of radishes. This is a fine record from a very small area, and shows the possibilities of trucking and intensive cultivation. It is needless to add that other farmers and farm families can do comparatively as well. Many farmers who are favorably situated as to markets can produce enough truck on one acre to enable them to carry on their farm operations on a cash basis and keep out of debt, which is always the first element in successful farming."

No Extension To Obtain Car License This Year

Governor Parnell has announced there will be no extension this year for obtaining car licenses. In 1929, the period was extended to January 15 and up to that time about 19,000 were sold. Throughout the year, the collector's office disposed of approximately 29,000 license applications.

Less than a fourth of the motor vehicles in the state have been registered, officials of the state Highway Department estimated.

The penalty for not securing tags is $5 for ten days after January 10. The penalty is attached by sheriffs who issue license applications.

$20,000 Is Asked for Tick Campaign

County Required to Hand- dle Deficiency Paper to Get Program.

Eradication of the Texas fever tick in Hempstead county can be accomplished only when Hempstead county banks or other financial institutions absorb $20,000 worth of deficiency warrants that Governor Parnell has issued in behalf of the tick eradication campaign, said Dr. J. H. Bux, state veterinarian Saturday.

Dr. Bux has communicated this information to the Board of Directors of the Hope Chamber of Commerce and has informed that organization that work would be started at once if the warrants were absorbed.

This is the second time that Dr. Bux has made this proposal. The first time the Hope Chamber of Commerce registered opposition to the plan of financing but since that time Clark county has accepted the plan, so it is likely that the organization here will accept in order to start eradication work at once.

The deficiency warrants are state loans bearing six per cent interest.

Immediate Survey Urged By Cazort

Fears Proposed Economy Action May Turn Into Campaign Issue.

LITTLE ROCK, Jan. 6.—Immediate action in obtaining a survey of the state government by the Bureau of Municipal Research so that its findings can be put into effect and a large saving to the taxpayers can be achieved, is urged in a letter by Lieut. Gov. Lee Cazort yesterday to governor Parnell.

Mr. Cazort wrote that he is not urging an immediate call of the legislature, but that he is urging immediate action on the proposed survey, otherwise it might develop into a campaign issue and the taxpayers may lose out altogether.

The lieutenant governor telephoned Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia, where a similar survey was made, and was told that the commission there completed its work in five months at a cost of $17,000 and that its report covered county affairs as well. If the survey can be started immediately here, Mr. Cazort wrote, the work can be completed in 60 to 90 days.

Mr. Cazort's letter follows: "Please do not misinterpret my meaning when I ask you to call a special session of the Arkansas legislature to consider a report from the Bureau of Municipal Research through which the taxpayers of Arkansas should be saved about $400,000 per annum. You know that I am not suggesting an immediate call of the legislature, but am urging as forcibly as a human can, that this survey be entered into without delay, its work completed as quickly as possible, and its recommendations immediately submitted to the General Assembly in special session in order that the people be relieved in 1930 instead of waiting until 1931."

"In a long distance telephone conversation with Governor Byrd of Virginia last night he told me that the survey in his state covered not only that of the state government, but that of all counties as well. He said the commission worked untidily slow, but completed its work in five months. He informed me that the survey had cost Virginia $17,000, and that the Bureau of Municipal Research made a charge only for its actual expense. Since your proposed survey covers only the state government and since this commission will charge only $5,000, obviously the survey in Arkansas would involve only one-third of the effort required in Virginia, and I am sure if you will

Large Building Program Slated At Arkadelphia

$200,000 Construction At Ouachita Will Start on February 20.

PLAN MORE PAVING

State Department Says Million To Be Spent Over Arkansas.

ARKADELPHIA, Ark., Jan. 6.—A considerable building in Arkadelphia is forecast for the year 1930. Contractors C. D. Gregory of this city, has assembled material on the ground and started a force to work on the brick annex on the education wing of the First Presbyterian church. This annex will be a second story building have eight rooms for Sunday school classes.

President Charles D. Johnson and the board of trustees of Ouachita college and several prominent alumni have agreed on February 20, as the date for breaking ground for the new $100,000 science building on the campus, which building will be immediately followed by a new $100,000 conservatory of fine arts structure, which also will house other departments including a large auditorium.

The steady trend of new residences erected in the year just closed are the A. J. Vestal and the S. M. Crawford residence both of which are in the paving district recently completed. These two homes cost approximately $100,000 including furnishings. Arkadelphia probably will do no paving in 1930, as three-fourths of the city already is paved.

According to assurances of the state highway department paving that will cost more than one million dollars will be laid within 35 miles of Arkadelphia, all coming in and passing through here. This includes the No. 7 road to Hot Springs that will connect with the paved road to Little Rock; No. 65 from Arkadelphia to Donaldson that will connect with the pavement on into Malvern, Benton and Little Rock; and No. 65 on south to Prescott with the pavement that leads into Texarkana.

Wind Holds Planes "Motionless" In Air

CORONADO, Cal., Jan. 6.—(AP)—It isn't speed always, but direction that is flying, according to two Rockwell field pilots.

The two, Lieut. L. A. Woodring and Lieut. W. R. Casey, had a tiff with a wind, and the wind emerged victor.

The pilots had taken off for a two plane formation flight at 25,000 feet altitude. Lieutenant Casey reached the height over the flying field; Lieutenant Woodring, thwarted by the wind, reached it over Tijuana, Mexico.

Propellers churned the air fruitlessly enough to carry the planes 130 miles an hour. Half an hour passed. Casey was still motionless over the flying field. Woodring looked below to find himself still over Tijuana.

They had been facing a 130-mile-an-hour head wind and were forced to descend to a lower altitude to get together for the formation.

Officers Capture Still Yesterday

120-Gallon Capacity Still On Display At Mayor's Office Today.

Officers J. E. Bearden, Frank "Turner," Riley Lewallen, Aleck Purle and deputy sheriff George Powell, of Lafayette county, Sunday raided a 120-gallon capacity still located in Old River bottoms at the intersection of Hempstead and Lafayette counties.

Artie Clark, white, and "Bo" Smith, negro, an ex-convict are alleged to have been the operators of the still. Officers could not locate Clark, and "Bo" Smith who was at the still when officers approached made his escape through the woods.

The still is on display at the mayor's office in this city today.

It is said that both Clark and Smith are under bond charged with making whiskey; and that two cases against each are now pending in Federal Court at Texarkana.

Babies In Prison

IT COMES as something of a shock to learn that there are three small babies confined in the state penitentiary at Auburn, N. Y.

They are lodged in the women's section of the prison. Their mothers are serving sentences for crimes of one kind or another, and since no provision is made for babies whose mothers have to go to prison, these babies have gone to prison along with them.

Auburn prison, unfortunately, isn't unique in this respect. There are other prisons in this country where the same sort of thing is happening; prisons where women prisoners have their babies with them, behind the bars.

It would be hard to find a more damning indictment of our civilization than that fact.

Of all the places in which a small child is out of place, a state prison comes first. One would think that no society would be so stupid and cruel as to permit such a thing for one instant. Imagine the handicap under which such a child must begin its life! Imagine how infinitely increased are its chances of growing up as a criminal!

Yet the thing happens: at Auburn, and elsewhere. It happens simply because we're too lazy to figure out some better solution. We get a woman who is under prison sentence, and we find that she has a small child—and we don't take the trouble to devise any way of handling the situation other than to permit her, graciously, to take the child to prison with her.

It may be that the mothers of these children will have finished their sentences before the babies are old enough to know anything about their surroundings. That, however, makes little difference. The one outstanding fact in the case is that it is barbarous and unutterably stupid to have a child in prison at all. If nothing else can be done, their mothers ought to be set free.

Shameful Tariff Legislation.

TARIFF legislation, except for revenue, is practically always an attempt to take advantage of certain people or interests for the benefit of another people or interests. When General W. S. Hancock, as a presidential candidate, declared that "the tariff was a local issue," he was ridiculed by the politicians. Nevertheless the history of tariff legislation will prove that he was right. Once the two major political parties differed radically on the tariff issue; but now there is practically no difference, because in each state or section there is usually a demand for a protective tariff for certain things peculiar to that state or section, and the politicians in Congress (and there are few real statesmen there) yield to the pressure in behalf of that portion of their constituency that seeks the benefit of the protective tariff.

The present Congress, called at first in special session to enact laws for the benefit of the farmer, is seeking to pass laws not merely for his aid but for the benefit of certain industries and interests, and is again demonstrating the validity of Hancock's declaration. One of the most shameful instances of the abuse of the tariff is in the attempt to increase the profits of a few producers of beet sugar by fixing such a rate as would practically exclude Cuba's sugar and thus ruin that country's chief industry and bring untold distress upon practically its whole people.

Our relation to Cuba, both by law and friendship, is that of a "big brother," and it is our duty not merely to maintain law and order there and protect Cuba from foreign powers, but to protect that weak and almost helpless people from the rapacity of the selfish interests of our own country. What boots it for us to save Cuba from cruel Spain and then deliver her into the hands of equally cruel commercial interests that would take from her helpless people the opportunity to make a living? In the name of Christian civilization, we protest.

That even our own selfish interests do not require such shameful legislation is evidenced in the fact that the Great Western Sugar Company, which would be one of the chief beneficiaries, has recently declared what is the equivalent of a 43 per cent dividend on its original capital. Surely a strong supposedly Christian nation cannot afford to stultify itself by destroying this weak and helpless people for the benefit of a 43-per-cent-dividend-paying industry.

In addition to this objection to an iniquitous measure, is there any justification for taxing all the sugar-using people of the United States for the benefit of a few producers of sugar? We do not expect either major party to renounce its selfish policy of a protective (destructive) tariff; but is it not time for such a party to be organized in a Christian land?

Our position on this issue in relation to Cuba was strongly reinforced by our Bishop Candler in his address at our recent Missionary Conference. He pleads for Cuba and we join him in urging our representatives in Congress to prevent the destruction of that little country by such iniquitous legislation as has been proposed in the high tariff on sugar.—Arkansas Methodist.

OUT OUR WAY

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Billions of dollars will be spent in America during 1930 on construction and expansion work which might have been held up had not President Hoover forcibly warned industrial leaders and public officials against the danger of a serious slump.

The perilous tendency to curtail operations and production in a cautious attempt to guard against the inevitable recession after the stock market crash, appears to have been checked to a substantial degree by vigorous White House intervention.

No one can make an accurate tabulation of the money involved in the prosperity campaign to which Hoover gave the impetus, but it is a fact of great importance that various important industrial groups have joined with federal, state and municipal governments in stimulating outlays not only larger than contemplated, but considerably in excess of expenditures for similar purposes last year.

Big Sums Are Involved
A total expenditure of $12,000,000,000 proposed by five large groups was recently estimated by the Magazine of Wall Street to represent a gain of 15 per cent over 1929, showing that the increase may be reckoned in billions.

The railroads plan to spend $1,050,000,000 on construction and equipment in 1930, nearly half of it in the first six months.

Public utilities figure on spending at least another billion dollars on construction and maintenance, more than 80 per cent of which will be devoted to construction.

Building and construction agencies estimate $1,100,000,000 in new building and modernization work.

The federal government is speeding up work on a $500,000,000 program of construction and New York city is actively promoting one involving about $1,000,000,000.

Reports are not yet in on the results of various conferences of public officials planning to push state and municipal programs, but Dr. John M. Gries, head of the new Division of Public Construction in the Department of Commerce, says he is confident that the volume of this work will be in excess of last year's.

Two of the most active governors following dispatch of telegrams urging speed-ups from the White House are those of Ohio and California. The governor of Ohio called in the county commissioners of 38 counties and reported it was announced that business men and officials in and around Cleveland had decided to proceed with $100,000,000 in improvements during the next few months.

Federal aid and encouragement may result in the building of up to $200,000,000 in ships.

The Mississippi flood control program, involving hundreds of millions of dollars, will be speeded and the government, which added $100,000,000 to its public building program, will also make a similar amount available in its program of co-operative highway building with the states.

New Beauty FOR THE NEW FORD

THE NEW FORD COUPE

Flowing grace of line gives style and distinction to new, roomy Ford bodies. Now on display at dealers' showrooms

THE NEW FORD CARS, shown last Tuesday for the first time, have been enthusiastically received throughout the country. Everywhere it is realized that now, more than ever, the new Ford is a "value far above the price."

One of the distinguishing features of the new Ford bodies is the carefully planned harmony of every detail of design. From the new deep radiator to the tip of the curving rear fender there is an unbroken sweep of line—a flowing grace of contour heretofore thought possible only in an expensive automobile.

LOOKING at the new Ford you are impressed instantly by its smart style and compact, substantial sturdiness. For there is about it a certain character or personality which sets it apart and gives it a fresh and lasting beauty. You will take a real pride in this beauty just as you find a real thrill in the alert, capable performance of the car.

All of the new Ford bodies are finished in a variety of colors, with new striping and new streamline moulding. Interiors have more leg room. Closed cars have adjustable front seats. The smaller wheels, with larger tires, bring the car closer to the road, with a consequent gain in riding comfort and safety.

An additional feature of importance is the Rustless Steel used for the radiator shell, head lamps, hub caps, cowl finish strip and tail lamp.

This Rustless Steel will retain its bright, gleaming luster throughout the life of the car. It will not corrode, rust or tarnish in any kind of weather. Its brilliance is permanent. There is no plate to wear off, crack or scale, for it is the same bright metal all the way through.

The use of this Rustless Steel on the new Ford is a reflection of the enduring quality that has been built into every part of the car.

AT today's low prices the new Ford is unquestionably an outstanding value. Check it over feature by feature and you will see that it brings you everything you want or need in a modern automobile:—beauty of line and color . . . safety . . . comfort . . . speed . . . power . . . quick acceleration . . . ease of control . . . economy of operation . . . low up-keep cost . . . typical Ford reliability and long life.

Comic Mack Keeps Busy
You'd think nine or ten fine pitchers would be enough to satisfy the world's champion baseball manager (that's Connie Mack) but such doesn't seem to be the case. Mr. Mack has just set himself back 100 grand for a new man from Portland named Roy (Workhorse) Mahaffey.

Mahaffey, a right-hander, won 21 games while losing 25 for Portland last season, but that doesn't tell the story. Most of the games that went into the loss column were pitched in the early part of the season. That was before Catcher Larry Woodall, the old Detroit catcher, joined the Portland team.

Woodall is credited with changing the Workhorse's style in a few trifling respects. Roy's main idea in pitching was the r'ar back and fling that pesky little ball as hard as he could at the opposing batter. Woodall taught him how to mingle 'em and the Workhorse's effectiveness was increased 100 per cent. Batters who had waited for the fast ones and cracked them out of the park now found the Workhorse of a different color.

Roy got his nickname from his willingness to pitch. Whenever he went for two days without a ball game under his belt, which didn't happen often, he began to look inquiringly at his manager. It will be interesting to see how Mack handles this young man.

New Talent for Yanks
When Colonel Jake signed Bob Shawkey to manage his ball club, it was said that Shawkey at least would develop the Yankee mound staff into a reliable corps. Red-shirted Bob is credited with being an excellent Promoters of indoor track meets in New York say there ought to be more foreigners competing to make it interesting. This is an off year in track, with the next Olympics two years away. Trafton, conqueror of Shires, also is one of those loud guys who uses the first personal pronoun a lot. . . . He played for Notre Dame in 1919 and after the season disguised his face with a piece of tape and played pro in Chicago. . . . Until his tongue got the better of him and he admitted he was the great Trafton in person. . . . And that let him out as far as Notre Dame football was concerned. In 1925 he fought with Dutch Sternaman, half owner of the Chicago Bears. . . . It is said Sternaman gained the decision.

teacher of young fingers, Roy Sherid being one of his proteges. Bob needs one righthanded pitcher to round out his staff, and has signed two of this variety, in the hope of finding the right man. One is Bill Henderson from Jersey City; the other is Foster Edwards, a free agent and former Brave. Henderson's record was not very impressive last year, but Jersey City played a minimum of baseball for its pitchers and the fact that he won 10 while losing 17 with such a crowd doesn't sound at all bad. Edwards was a Dartmouth stat back in 1926. In his tryouts with the Braves he seemed to lack control.

Shawkey tried to make a deal whereby he would get Willis Hudlin of Cleveland, but it is said General Manager Billy Evans of the Indians asked for only the Grand Central terminal and a couple of the larger buildings in Wall Street. They think a lot of Mark Koenig in Cleveland, but they think a lot of Hudlin, too.

Shires Ready To Quit Fight Game

Is Eager To Get Himself Right With General Public.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—The great Shires disillusioned gladiator, was reported to be flying by plane to Chicago with several firm purposes in mind. Among them was said to be a plan to arrange a conference with Charles A. Comiskey with a view of signing his contract to play first base for the White Sox during the season of 1930.

Promoter James C. Mullen, the man who launched Shires in the fight racket, said he had phoned to C. Arthur in Detroit and had strongly recommended that he forego future fights, returning to Chicago and make arrangements to resume his occupation, that of playing baseball. Shires reacted favorably to the suggestion and announced he would take the first Chicago plane flying out of Detroit.

So eager is Shires to get himself right with the public that he plans to get himself right with the public that he plans to address the fans from the ring at White City tonight if the Illinois commission will permit him to mount the rostrum. Shires has promised to make his remarks short, snappy and to the point.

Promoter Mullen has given his consent to the appearance if Shires gets the commission's O. K. Shires will have his baseball conference, his Illinois commission hearing, and attend to a few personal matters before leaving Wednesday for Lansing to attend the hearing of the Michigan State Boxing Commission, where he expects to be reinstated by the Michigan board and later by the National Boxing Association which now has him under suspension in 32 states.

Rash Romance

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing house, is snubbed by other girls in the office because she is not communicative about her private affairs. ARTHUR KNIGHT, executive who is married and a widower, becomes interested in the girl and asks her to take dinner with him. Judith, somewhat embarrassed, who has noted on a whim, becomes more and more attracted by the girl. He is lonely and his children—TONY, JO, and JUNIOR, are both away from home. It keeps a mysterious appointment with a young man whom she calls "Dad." There is an argument between them in which the girl is overruled. Next day in the office Tony takes a picture of beautiful Judith. For two weeks Arthur and Judith go to dinner, converse and play and at the end of that time asks her to marry him. She agrees.

Here eyes were brighter than usual and her cheeks glowed warmly pink all morning.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

THE morning after Judith had promised to become Arthur Knight's wife, she woke to face a dream world. The discordant clattering of the alarm clock aroused her at 7. Judith shut the alarm off, threw down the covers and thrust one foot to the floor. Then she remembered.

She had agreed to marry Arthur Knight! A vision of that scene in the reception room last night beat in upon her dazed, half-doubting mind. She saw herself in Knight's arms. How he had held her, kissing her again and again, murmuring that he adored her, that she was precious beyond price, that he loved her, needed her and wanted her to be his wife!

One white hand went to Judith's lips. Hard to believe—that picture. She saw herself, too, half-sobbing, clinging to the man's shoulders as a frightened child might cling. She had returned Knight's kisses. She had allowed him to stroke her lovely hair, to pat her arms soothingly, promising that from now on every thing in the world was to be beautiful and happy. Would they not share it all together?

Judith remembered how she had said good night finally with a quick smile, a kiss and the man's strong arms about her.

She was going to become Mrs. Arthur Knight!

Now she was thoroughly awake, wondering how she had ever been able to sleep through the night. There had been hours, of course, in which she lay sleepless and tossing. She remembered them too. With a bound she was out of bed, aware time was flying and that subway rushes do not wait for sentiment.

"For me?"

"I guess they're flowers. It's a flower shop name on the tag. Only, my! ain't it an elegant package, though!"

The girl was untying the wrappings. A soft "Ooh!" escaped her lips as she drew away the green tissue.

"Look, Sarah, look!"

It was the most exquisite corsage of violets Judith had ever beheld which she raised from the box. The rich, dewy perfume of the blossoms was like a poem. Quaintly outlined with a lace ruffle and tied with ribbons, the bouquet was certainly a perfect love token.

"Oh, they are lovely—they're beautiful," Judith murmured, feasting her eyes on the flowers. "What can I do with them, Sarah?"

"Where'll I put them?"

"Aren't you going to wear 'em, Miss Cameron?"

"No. Not this morning I'm afraid. I—I couldn't. Oh, I don't want them to die!"

"Want me to put 'em in the ice box, Miss Cameron? They'll keep perfect there. Won't take up much room neither."

"Would you, Sarah? Oh, that's sweet of you. Here—" ing's tasks immediately. But her eyes were brighter than usual and her cheeks glowed warmly pink all morning.

She did not see Adelaide nudge Mital but she heard her stage whisper.

"Frosty's warming up!"

Suddenly Judith Cameron decided upon immediate action. She turned about, eyed Adelaide Conway calmly, then arose and walked to Miss Tupper's office.

The door of Miss Tupper's office was always open but Judith knocked.

"Yes—what is it?"

Kathryn Tupper adjusted her spectacles and when she saw who it was standing on the threshold she frowned.

"Well, Miss Cameron?"

"I wish to give notice that I am leaving," said Judith.

"Well!"

Interest indeed could be read on Kathryn Tupper's face. She leaned forward, eyeing the girl closely.

"No, Miss Tupper. And I wish to leave at the end of the week. I would like my final pay check next Saturday."

Miss Tupper snapped a drawer shut.

"Very well," she said sharply. Judith turned her back, smiling to think how Mr. Knight had been "displeased." The mood passed very quickly, and she became serious. After all, had she really heard the last of Kathryn K. Tupper? When eventually the woman should hear that Knight and Judith were to wed—!

The girl shuddered.

SHE did not see Knight during the morning but at one o'clock shortly after her return from lunch, there was a telephone call.

Only rarely did Judith Cameron receive telephone messages at the office. She eyed the instrument suspiciously, then picked up the receiver.

"Hello?"

"Judith? I hope the flowers said 'good morning' to you—I've been wanting to say it myself, dear."

"Oh, but they did! They're so beautiful. Where—where are you?"

"Now you're being cautious, aren't you?" The man laughed. "Never mind. Over on Forty-second street. Out to lunch, you know. I had to hear your voice, Judith."

A low laugh reached him over the wire.

"That's better," Knight continued. "Let me hear you laugh. And I wanted to tell you, Judith, I'll be calling at 6:30."

"At 6:30," the girl agreed. "Thank you very much."

"You couldn't say more than 'thank you'?" he coaxed.

"You don't really think I should—now—do you?"

"Oh, you're right, dear. You're right. Until tonight then?"

"Yes. Goodbye."

"Goodbye."

The afternoon dragged. Judith filed away letters, wrote others and made neat carbons. At last it was five minutes of five. She put her work away, went for her wraps and hurried out of the office as usual.

An hour and a half later when Arthur Knight called for her Judith was ready, wearing the great bunch of violets pinned to her coat. There was no taxi tonight but a handsome maroon-hued town car, "Why—Arthur!" she exclaimed. "How gorgeous!"

Immediate Survey

show proper co-operation with the commission the work can be completed in a period of 60 or 90 days at the most.

"The people of Arkansas, through their newspapers, through their civic organizations and through the voice of prominent leaders have been crying for this relief for some time, yet during your administration you have allowed one extra session and one regular session of the legislature to go by without giving this most important matter your attention.

Saying Anticipated Here
"From reports made by the Bureau of Municipal Research after making surveys in other states, elimination of useless state departments and the purging of the payroll have resulted in great saving for the taxpayers. We must anticipate such a recommendation by this commission after it has studied conditions in Arkansas. I am afraid, governor, that if you are not willing for the army of useless employees now burdening the payroll of the state government to be discharged before the primary election, the people of our state may accuse you of insincerity; and it might be said that the $5,000 you are spending for the survey is merely for the purpose of giving you a campaign issue. Recommend governor, you have been very successful in handling this legislature. You may not be so successful in handling the next one—you may not be governor at all.

"After reading your reply to my first letter, proposing a called session of the legislature to put into effect recommendations when made by the commission, I am opposed to the spending of $5,000 unless you start the survey immediately and unless you are willing to give the taxpayers relief immediately following the survey, because otherwise the people of Arkansas will doubt the sincerity of the movement."

A "LITERARY DIGEST"

A "modern Priscilla" crossing the "Atlantic" in search of an "American boy" who had gone to help with the "world's work." Having good "success" she found the "country gentleman" leaning against a "Saturday evening post" and gazing at an "evening star." He asked her to be his "youth's companion" and share his "farm home and fireside." A "pathfinder" guided them to his home, where "the household" goods consisted mostly of "needlecraft" and old "farm bureaus." The "current opinion" was that they would have an "independent" life, but after they had enjoyed "farm life" for nearly a "golden age," she received a "dispatch" from a "Virginia farmer," saying "come back." She laid aside her "red book" and said to her "woman's home companion," "I'm going to leave this 'cosmopolitan' country and return to 'America' and be an 'American woman'."

ADVERTISING MAN'S NIGHTMARE

Eventually, why not now, you'll drink milk from contented cows with a skin you love to touch, not a coffin on board; reach for a little fairy in your home that hasn't scratched yet, and see what a whole of a difference there is in the Gold Dust Twins when you see America first and a Fisher body made out of Campbell's soup with 57 varieties of Old Duck Cleanser, because it floats, come out like ribbon, lies flat on the brush, gets it, for the hair of the women who care say it with flowers, while you're riding in a Cloud you can't go wrong in the Ozarks, there's a reason, for when it rains it pours.

Movie Star Widowed By Air Disaster

The mid-air collision of two movie airplanes which fell, flaming, into the Pacific ocean near Santa Monica, Calif., with a loss of 10 lives, widowed Mary Astor, famous screen actress, shown above. Her director-husband, Kenneth Hawks right, was among those killed. At the left is Roscoe Turner, surviving pilot, who was piloting a third airplane from which a stunt artist was to make a parachute jump while cameramen in the other machines filmed him. The picture they were making paralleled the mysterious disappearance of Alfred Lowenstein, Belgian financier, from an airplane flying over the English channel.

"Shanghai Lady" At New Grand Monday

For the first time in the history of the motion picture, the Chinese language as spoken by real Chinese, authentic Chinese music as played by Oriental entertainers, and all the myriad, colorful sound-effects of picture-true China are brought to the screen in "Shanghai Lady." Universal all-talking production of the famous stage success by John Colton, which will open at the New Grand theatre on Monday.

"Shanghai Lady," starring beautiful and exotic Mary Nolan, supported by James Murray, is in reality the Orient brought to the Ozarkland through the medium of the talking photoplay. It is a birdseye view of the dives and dens of the Far East, of its kaleidoscopic Oriental pagantry, of its mystery and charm.

Whole streets in exact reproduction of celebrated localities in Shanghai were built especially for the production and hundreds of native Chinese in their picturesque, Oriental costumes were used by John Robertson, the director. Against this background is told an appealing love story of two white girls who had drifted by separate paths to the same rendezvous of refuge: Madame Polly Yoo's picturesque "tea shop," where girls of all nationalities vied for the patronage of wanderers from the four corners of the world.

Misses Mary Jones and Emma Green spent Sunday in Washington the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Monroe.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

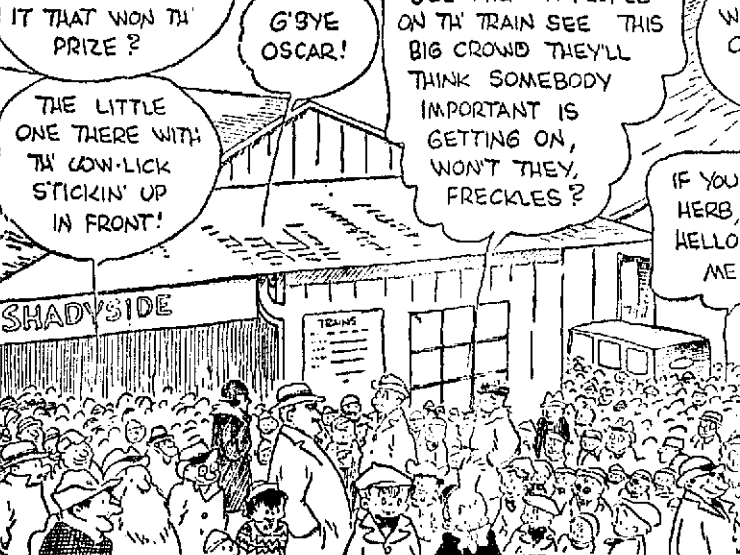

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

It takes so little to make us glad,
Just the cheering clasp of a friendly hand,
Just a word from one we can understand,
And we finish the task we long had planned.
And we lose the doubt and the fear we had,
So little it takes to make us glad.

Ziegfeld Name Is Quality Assurance

What the words "It Floats" means to Ivory Soap; what "Ask the Man Who Owns One" means to Packard—"Glorifying the American Girl" means to the show that Florenz Ziegfeld produces.

A Ziegfeld show is a commodity in the amusement market, just as soap or automobiles are commodities in the general consumer market.

Thus it is that the show-going public can expect a quality product when it buys tickets to "Glorifying the American Girl," all-talking, singing and dancing revue-extravaganza which Florenz Ziegfeld personally supervised for Paramount and which comes to the Saenger Theatre Tuesday for a 2 days run.

"Glorifying the American Girl" has everything that a big Ziegfeld stage spectacle ever had plus an additional cast of stars in special revue scenes.

Mary Eaton, leading lady of the all-talking Paramount production "The Cocoanuts" with the Four Marx Brothers, and herself a glorified Ziegfeld beauty in many stage productions, is the leading lady in "Glorifying the American Girl." She is supported by a cast of Broadway famous actors—Dan Henly, Kaye Renard, Olive Shea and Edward Crandall.

BALANCE!

TASTE!

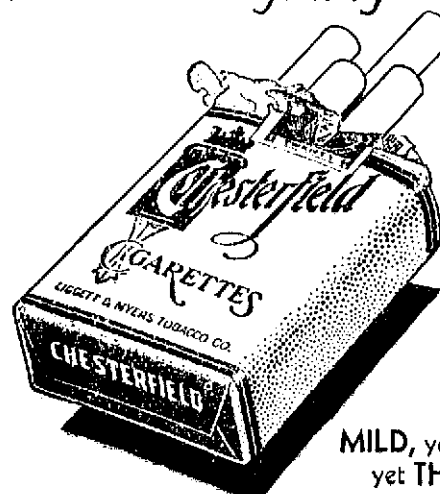

IT is a curious fact that the best-tasting cigarette is the one in which no single taste quality is too evident. Over-mildness, for example—or over-richness—shows lack of "balance" just as plainly as harshness or bitterness.

On this basis, test Chesterfield. Aroma, smoothness, satisfying goodness, flavor, mildness, all present—but none emphasized at the expense of others. The one goal is taste—better taste, balanced taste—
